Profile of Speakers

Eleanor McEvoy, Budget Energy and Dragons' Den

Eleanor McEvoy is the CEO of Budget Energy Ltd, a leading supplier of electricity in the Northern Ireland market, and BEenergy, which has just launched in the Republic of Ireland. Since 1991, Eleanor has successfully built and sold two companies: Pembroke Distributers Ltd, a vending company which was sold in 2001, and Phonecard Warehouse Ltd, which achieved a £50m turnover before being sold in 2006. Budget Energy – 'the same electricity only cheaper' – broke ground in 2011 by becoming the first independent low cost supplier to enter the Northern Ireland electricity market. Eleanor won the UTV Business Personality of the Year in 2013 and in the same year reached the finals of the Ernst and Young Entrepreneur of the Year for the second time. Eleanor sits on the EY Alumni Board and is a Visiting Professor of Entrepreneurship for the University of Ulster

Rachel Sarah Murphy, The Irish Film Academy and Free The Way Cleaning

Rachel Sarah Murphy is known to many as the character "Jo" from Ireland's leading Soap Opera "Fair City" but what some don't know is that Rachel has also been in business for over 14 years. As she says herself "there's not much I haven't experienced in business". She's opinionated, feisty and an eternal optimist. Rachel is also the founder and CEO of The Irish Academy and Free The Way Cleaning. As a single mum, she is well used to juggling motherhood with business. Rachel is an entrepreneur in every sense of the word. Realistic with a passion for adventure. Taking calculated risks. Sometimes winning, sometimes not.

Margaret Kelly, Cork Chamber

Margaret Kelly joined Cork Chamber in June 2018 where she primarily delivers on the Enterprise Europe Network (EEN) – a European Commission-funded project. The EEN is international in its focus and aims to support SMEs to find international business partners by providing market information, assisting with EU legislation and providing information on funding.
